By: Kareem D.

It was April 13, 1988 in New York city. Amanda Wilson is having her first baby. She is very excited. She wants the baby to be a girl but unfortunately she received news that it was going to be a boy. She wasn't as excited now but still happy. As the baby was born, Amanda took him home. She decided to name her baby Jack after her dad.

As Jack was growing up, he wasn't doing very good in school. Jack's mom was not happy with him. She started to notice that he was playing video games too much. She decided to sign him up to play basketball. He was not doing very good at first but then with a little practice, he eventually became better than all of his teammates.

A few years later, Jack went to the school of Duke University. He was doing very good in school. Jack's mom was very proud of him. With a little bit of luck, he made it to the basketball team. He got really excited when he found out that he has a chance of getting drafted to the NBA. He made it just on time as the announcer says, "with the first pick of the 2010 NBA draft, the Dallas Mavericks select.....Jack Wilson from the school of Duke University." Jack jumped up and down with happiness. He is officially number 30 at the position point guard for the Dallas Mavericks. He could not wait until his first game.

Jack's first game of the season was a win. But a couple of games later, Jack and his team kept losing games. Jack didn't like this so he requested a trade to a different team. He decided to join the Golden State Warriors. Luckily for Jack, the Golden State Warriors accepted his trade request. Jack started to win more games as soon as he joined the team. He was so good that he made it to the All-Star team. Jack and his team were good enough that they won the playoffs. He was the best player to get drafted in this first season. He won the Rookie of the Year Award.

Jack was so happy until he found out that his mom had cancer. He was very sad when he heard the news about his mom. His mom's sickness made him lose focus while playing. A few weeks later, his mom passed away. Jack took it so hard that he could not stop crying. His mom's death motivated him to play better. Jack won the Playoffs again. He won the finals MVP Award and the Season MVP Award. Jack continued winning championships until he got too old to play. Eventually, Jack went down in history as a Hall of Famer and the greatest player in NBA history.
