

Cancer Fighter
By Camila

So, there I was slumped in the back of my hospital bed. Hi, my name is Hope. You may be wondering why I'm in a hospital...well, I have cancer. I've had cancer for as long as I can remember, and I've made some friends though out the years.

I woke up and saw my breakfast on my nightstand. It was oatmeal and fruit. I thought in my head "Yum!" Later that day I had bloodwork done. I've gotten so used to the pain I don't feel it anymore. After, the nurse said, "I'll be back with the results." She came back and said, "I have bad news Hope is sick. "Oh!" replied to Hope's parents. Every day it got worse. She was sick for weeks. She prayed every day that she would get better.

Until one day she woke up and felt completely normal. So, she called for the doctors. Her parents and doctors were all there. "It's like a miracle", said the doctors. Hope's parents were informed that Hope no longer had cancer and wasn't sick anymore. Hope stayed for a while and had scavenger hunts with her friends Grace and Faith. She always visited and helped others that had cancer.

...twenty years later.

"Hi, It's Hope and I'm now a thirty-year-old scientist and have found a cure for cancer!!" "Now all the kids in the world can be healthy and free!"

The End.

P.S. Plus adults ☺

Moral: Never give up and there's always a light at the end of the tunnel.

Theme Song: I will survive!
