

Chad, the Disabled Kid
Rachel R.

Once upon a time, a boy named Chad, an 11-year-old boy was a disabled kid. He was a lonely kid. All the kids made fun of him and his wheelchair. Chad always wanted to skydive, but he could not because he is disabled! So, he was just sitting on his iPad, watching skydiving people. Chad's mom hates chad because he's always lonely, and never makes friends. His dad died, he was five, so, it's just Chad and his mom. He visits his uncle ever weekend. Chad has a wheelchair, so his uncle should find a way to build something to sky dive with Chad.

One day, his uncle just barges in the door, "Chad! Chad!" his uncle said, "I have a surprise for you!" and he put Chad in the can and chad closed his eyes tightly. His uncle said, "Open your eyes now." Chad opened his eyes, he gasps! It was a little harness for Chad. Chad was so shocked, he could hop around. He was smiling with joy, "Thank you Uncle." So, his uncle and his staff s-l-o-w-l-y picked up Chad and put Chad in the harness. Chad couldn't believe his dream would finally come true.
