

Marc

Football Dream

Alex Johnson was dreaming about playing football. He was running like his life depended on it towards the touchdown Zone.

“I’m almost there, just a few more yards.” Alex said to himself. Suddenly, out of nowhere, five people tackled Alex and jumped on top of him. There was a pile of bodies, and Alex was nowhere to be seen. The ref ran over to see if Alex had made the touchdown. When everyone who had tackled Alex was pulled off, the referee blew his whistle and raised his arms straight up in the air. The ball was still in Alex’s possession, and in the touchdown zone. The crowd went wild. “Yes!” they all hollered.

Alex then got up and heard a loud bell. It was his alarm clock. Alex rapidly got up, changed clothes, and ate his breakfast. Then he went to football practice to prepare for the real game.