The wondering little princess

The little princess wanted to go to school because she wanted to learn a lot because she wanted to be smart. She wanted to be better in her class than all of her classmates but she didn't know how. The little princess asked her teacher, "How can I become smarter?" she asked. Her teacher, said "Well you can always listen and pay attention to everything in school". So by the middle of the year the little princess had been paying attention and following directions and became smarter about all the things she had ever learned and at the end of the year she was an all A student and graduated through all her classes and never got one B after that.
