

The Admirer

By Zha'Rya W.

Love is the happiest thing that will happen to you. But it's different if they are crazy over you. Like this man named Steve Stigler. He loved this woman in his class, she sits right in front of him and her name was Margret Adams. She always turns around and talks to him every once in a while. She was the only one in school that talks to him others thought he was weird or strange in a way. Margret thought he was just like everybody else. One day at their school there the men and women were sitting calmly when the teacher walked in and announced that prom was next week and Steve's eyes widened then he started looking at Margret with a big smile as bright as the sun. The day after was Friday and at lunch Steve was thinking to himself that he should walk up to Margret and ask her to the prom. But that's when Margret came up to him and she said, "I have awesome news." Steve said, "What tell me, tell me," when Margret said the most happiest news. The news was that Todd Bradley asked her to prom Steve was sad and a little shy at the time. A few days past and it was Monday of prom. Everyone was looking so sharp and pretty then Steve saw Margret all pretty he didn't know what to say but then it just came out the words he never thought he would say, "do you want to go to the dance with me?" Margret said, "I'm going with Todd." Todd walked by and took her hand then said, "Loser." That day right there he never spoke to her but still was mad in love with her very mad in love. Two years came by and they were out of college now and every day of the week Margret gets gifts saying, "You will regret what you did my love." She never knew who it was then he, Steve, came and said, "Do you remember me?" She said, "Yes are you the one sending me this?" Steve said, "Yes my dear." Margret told him to leave her alone but that's when he did the thing nobody would ever think he killed her with one slice in the throat then he hung her head on his door in his room. That's the story of the very one admirer who got too deep in to love.
