

My Dream

By: Laila C.

Once I had a dream and it was beautiful. I once had a dream that I could never forget. I had a dream that I was an angel in heaven and I could fly upon the sky and I had a beautiful white dress and I had wings and I also helped god in the heavens. One time it was a special person that needed help and I helped that special person. After I felt so good about myself and I know god was very happy with what I did. When someone needs help I get out there and help them and I work those wings! I was even happy with myself. Then I wondered "did I make that someone believe in themselves again", because that special someone had a beautiful soul and I know they do so I was the one to help them out. Then I woke up and thought about what my dream was about and I couldn't remember what it was about so I tried to fall back asleep and I couldn't do that either that was my dream and it was just beautiful and I loved it.
