

The break-up

So one day i'm sitting in the hallway, my boyfriend comes up and tells me this "Caileigh, i'm sorry but it's over, my parents said 'i can't date'." it was the day the assembly was happening. So choir was going in the gym and getting ready to sing, BUT i could not hold them in. i started to cry really hard. Then harder. Then harder. When they called the 6th graders in Colton comes in laughing and i stared at him. He stared at me. Then i cried a lot more. He was just watching me cry while he was laughing. Kaleb was staring at me as well, i stared at him back. Then Colton was gone. I looked around and then found him sitting right next to the boy i still liked then started crying cause he was telling them about how he broke up with me and then i was crying and looking at them laughing. They stared at me while i was staring at them. They pointed at me and laughed at me. Everyone was looking at ME like i was the spotlight of a show. Almost all the boys felt bad for me in my choir. Then the counselor comes in and takes me to the hallway then asked "wanna come in my office till the assembly was over?" i said "yes" while i was crying. We walked to her office then the 6th graders come by and she let me free.

When we got in the choir room everyone comes and gives me a hug and say.... He's a brat, he's ugly and doesn't deserve you. Your better than him. Then my day was perfect then on.