The Night Warper

This is a story about a girl named Elizabeth and she is 12 years old. Elizabeth has something wrong, that her parents don't know about. When she goes to bed she get possessed and goes to different universe, and she turns into this six-armed butterfly that glows bright. On the special day of her birthday she get shot in the wing and falls to miles down and then slams to the ground. She sees that her wings it ruined and now she can't get home. The universes village surrounded her in fright. The village picked her up and look to the village nurse who healed her wing. But she was still did not let go back to her world she needed the perfect bed, pillow, and blanket. The village tried to find all of that but it did not work, she was stuck there forever in the universe.

Then one day a nurse finds something her bed has the perfect bed, pillow and blanket she thinks it will work. So, the next day she calls Elizabeth to come to her house so she goes then she gets all comfy and closes her eyes and five minutes later she gets all her powers back and wakes up to be in her room all wrapped up.

She runs downstairs to see her mother and father huddled up and Elizabeth says "Mom, dad I missed you" they look up to see their daughter standing on the stairs. Elizabeth runs and hugs her parents so tight and they ask "Where were you, you just disappeared please don't do that again". "I won't" says Elizabeth.

The next day they spent the day together, loved and happy.

The End
