This is a story about a dog-named Bella, who lives in a small apartment in Houston with a small yard to play in. Everyday is the same for her. Go outside and chew on a turkey bone. One day Bella gets an idea to escape. But her owners just installed a new electric fence.

So Bella dug under the new electric fence and escaped, but right away was picked up by Animal Control and is taken to the pound. Bella stayed at the pound for a couple of days. She felt very sad and alone. Then a rancher named Rick sees Bella, right then Rancher Rick knew Bella, was the dog for him.

Rancher Rick took Bella to his ranch and let her run free on all of his land. Everyday she has lots of fun and from that day forward Bella had a great life.
