

Sox's Life Adventure

At first, everything was dark. I could feel my soft mother and the other kittens around me. But when I could open my eyes, things got a little more interesting. I could see my brothers and sisters, my mom, and the dirty work site where she gave birth to me. It wasn't long before the humans noticed us. I was so excited because they were keeping us! A few people got my mom and some of my siblings. Not fair.

As I watched people take my sisters and brothers, my brother got picked by a tall man that seemed so friendly. As soon as I saw him, I knew he and his family was right for me. He was walking toward me then turned right to my brother! He was about to pick him up but then he stopped, put him down, and took a picture on his small lighting up device. He started pressing buttons. He waited a few seconds and looked back at it. After he looked at his device, he turned and started talking to another man.

"Is this cat a girl?" he asked pointing at me

They kept talking for a few more minutes and laughed at the end

He looked back at me and I sat up as fast as a cheetah, he smiled and picked me up. He put me in the back of a big metal box with wheels. He called it a 'car'. As soon as it started moving I was so excited to meet his family! I wanted some kids to play with, someone to lay down with, and someone to feed me that was why I couldn't wait. But we didn't exactly go to my new home. We went to a large building. When we got inside I could smell food, other cats, dogs, and so much more. I loved it! He took me to a section with food, gray sand, and beds. He picked out food, some sand, a box with a kitty door, a scratching post with a bed on top! Before leaving we stopped at a large table. He gave the man behind the table a small card. The man swiped it then gave it back. When we left he took us to a tiny house with wheels. It was called a trailer. We went inside, and he put me down, I sniffed around a little. I couldn't focus much because I had to go, and I mean GO! I followed my new owner to a small room. He set up a box and put some sand in it. I couldn't hold it much longer, so I went in. when I was done I came out and all he said was good girl! I was happy to be a good girl!

After he fed me, we played around together. But I wondered why I haven't met his family yet.

About a month passed when three girls came into my home. They smelled like my owner so I knew they were his family. There was a woman with beautiful black hair and a warming smile. Her name was Jana. There were also two playful girls with long brown hair. Their names were Chloe and Layla. The girls called my owner 'dad' so I called him that too! Dad scooped me up and held me out in his palms. The two girls gently stroked my fur and kissed me.

As they got older we played, slept, and laid down together. But sometimes they would go off to school, and dad would go off to work. And I was alone. But I didn't mind much. I would just sleep all day

A few years passed, and the girls are nine and eleven now. I was so happy to finally get exactly what I wanted.

The best family ever

The End
