

Trey and Rosie

By Tayslee R.

One sunny Tuesday morning during the summer Trey and his mom were going to the park. Trey and his mom got in a car accident and Trey lost his leg. After the summer it was time to go back to school. Trey went in his class and kids were laughing at him. Except one girl named Rosie. At recess Trey was sitting by himself when Rosie sat next to him and asked him if he wanted to play on the playground with her. Trey was so excited that he had a friend that wanted to play with him at recess instead of being laughed at. Then it was time to go home and his mom was asking how his day was. Trey said that everyone in class laughed at him except Rosie. Treys mom was crying because he made a friend. A couple of days later on Saturday Treys mom asked Rosie if she could come over to play. So, Rosie came to Treys house to play dress up. They had so much fun laughing and putting on different costumes. One day at school Trey was walking down the hall when this boy named Josh scared Trey and made him fall. Everybody in the hall started to laugh at Trey. Then Rosie told the principal that Josh was making fun of Trey. The principal took Josh to the principal's office. Josh got three weeks of detention. Then Trey gave Rosie a really big hug and thanked her for sticking up for him. Soon after that everyone knew not to mess with Trey because they would have to deal with Rosie too. Rosie was a great example of what a friend should be that the kids in school all started to become friends with Trey.
