

2117

It was the year 2117, the city was ruled by Mecha, the last human. The mechanical animals roamed Future City. They would pass by each other. Their silver, shiny, metal would gleam in the light of the sun. Mecha would build the new robots with the help of the already existing robots. The newest generation of robots at the time was the Dragon Series, also known as generation 10. The oldest series of robot animals were the wolves. They still roamed Future City. The first robot from each generation was a test. Mecha would send out a test to see if there's any issues. If there were any issues, Mecha could adjust or fix the robots. Mecha had 3 helpers, Silver, Metallia, and Meta. All of them are generation 1, except Meta. She's generation 10. At the times, some of the robots around the city have been randomly shutting down. The helpers were scared because they thought they would shut down as well. So they needed to try to solve the problem. Meta then said "Silver, Metallia, don't you guys think we should research first?" Metallia and Silver nodded. On their way to headquarters, Meta would flap her robot wings as she thought about Mecha. Metallia and Silver walked as their big paws clumped down, "Clunk, Clunk" Meta stopped daydreaming about how the 3 helpers can save Future City. Meta squeaked "What'cha doing?" Silver and Metallia replied "thinking..." Meta knew what they were thinking about, the Shutting down problem." "They you guys what do you think we should do to see what's happening? That could help us when we're trying to solve this big problem?" Metallia replied in excitement, "Hey why don't we set up cameras?!" Meta was so surprised at Metallia's idea. "Great idea!" Silver looked down at his big paws and thumped them on the floor as if he was walking. The 3 of them walked to ROBOTic Headquarters to research. The 3 helpers had gotten to headquarters. They walked down the halls to get to Mecha's room. Mecha was working on Chips for the newest generation. "Oh, hey you guys! How's it going?" Mecha said. She turned around "Oh, we just wanted to ask you if you could set up your special camera's some places." The helpers said. Mecha raised her eyebrows. "Ph, what is it?" Metallia replied, "You know the shutting down problem? Well, we could set up the cameras in the downstairs room where the robots recharge. Deal?" "Sure!" Mecha smiles. As soon as Mecha said yes, the 4 friends started planning then got to work. Once the camera's were all set up, they set up the viewing system to view the camera's. It was dawn, the robots were making their way to the charging station. The 3 helpers made their way to headquarter from their houses. When they got to HQ they met Mecha in the Cam View Room, or CVR. All the robots were charging whenever Mecha heard something. "KLAP!" "What was that!?" the 4 of them whispered. They looked back at the camera's. What they saw had terrified them. A big, oddly shaped robot was standing in the big room. It was bigger than Meta, looked stronger than Silver, and looked more smarter than Metallia. Meta whispered to Mecha. "Psst, turn on the Identifier 2000," Mecha replied. "You got it, bud." Mecha clicked a few buttons and clacked a few too. A red dot landed on the mysterious robot."Buzs" Mecha clicked a button. The robot's name and city popped up. Meta read to the other 3. "Name's Deeno, and his city is Fossil R. City" "Oh my- This is so unexpected!" Metallia said. "Come on Let's go get him!" Mecha yelled. They all zoomed out of the door to go to the recharge room They saw Deeno standing there, "Hello... Deeno." They all said. "Do not touch these robots or come back," Mecha stared at Deeno. "I'm sorry." Was all Deeno said. Whenever he left that was the last time they saw him. Mecha managed to fix the robots that shut down. Everything was perfect again.
