

Kaitlyn W.

The story of

How Darth Vader Became My Father

Okay let me make this clear Darth Vader really isn't my father I just wanted to make that clear because I'm sure when you read my title you were probably thinking "is she for real?" Darth Vader isn't real Well you need to tell that to Kaden, the biggest bully at Stacie Middle School. Well I better get started with the whole story. Well I'm

USUALLY late for school and I feel a tap on my shoulder and turn around to see Kaden he slams me in my locker and everything goes pitch black and the only light I have is from my light up keychain. But wait! What what's this my missing hairpin Finally! I can get out of this locker so I trick the lock and....I'M FREE!. But look at the time! I'm late for p.e As I arrived into the gym, everyone was wearing their gym clothes but me Miss Britney announced we are doing the pacer test but I was 45 minutes late and got detention for interrupting her when she was eating a egg salad so I waited until class was over then headed off to bio class. I was flipping through my dictionary when I noticed a horrible smell and it was coming from Kaden, why because he hasn't bathed since last Halloween so I asked for a bathroom pass and went to my locker and got my gas mask on and headed back to class. I got a lot of "looks" from other students but I just ignored them like I always do. For some reason whenever I wear my mask Kaden acts super nice to me because he actually thinks that I'm Darth Vader's daughter. And he wanted to be just like my father and he told me he was already saving up for a lightsaber and a cape. Is he for real?

That's the story of how Darth Vader became my father.

By Kaitlyn

