

Zombie Attack

By Nasarani K.

One night, my family and I were watching a zombie movie, and my dad was warming popcorn, but then the microwave stopped working. My dad was brave enough and he decided to call the repair man. After a few minutes later the repair man showed up “What’s the problem?” My dad said that the microwave stopped working, and the lights turned off and the repair man was dead. My mom decided to call 911 but they didn’t answer. Everyone was shocked and scared, so they went to the closet. I was certain that there was a murder in the house, but we decided to call the zombie hunters. They said, “Hello where’s the zombie?” My dad said that a repair man died, and he might turn into a zombie. After about an hour the zombie hunter used their special equipment to shoot a zombie, but they then saw another zombie by the microwave, and shot it. They said, “That’s all the zombies have a goodnight.” My family and I was so happy that all zombies were gone from our house, and we all went to sleep.
