

Galaxy Girl

Lauren B.

Everyone knows the story about how the world was created. How God came and used magical powers to make the universe. But wait! I am going to tell you the story about how the world was really created.....

Once upon a time before the world became itself, everyone floated in space. When a baby girl was born, everything in space seemed much brighter and happier. And as she got older, because of her brightness, space had more room for people to come.

One day she found a golden notebook and a sparkly pink pencil floating around. So, she picked them up and drew a navy blue circle. A navy blue circle appeared in the sky. When she drew green spots inside of it, green spots appeared in the sky inside the circle. Then she flew toward the circle and tried to stand on it but she floated up again, so she drew gravity and it pulled her in. So she drew a golden warm sun, sparkly blue waves and fresh green grass. She continued to draw shelter, tv's and anything that has ever existed.

She made the world so bright and colorful that it summoned other people down to earth. Then everyone came down to earth and lived happily ever after.
