So if you've read other stories you probably know that there's a setting. In this story the setting is in Albuquerque, New Mexico in 1996. This story is about two guys named Eric and Erin, say hi Eric, "hi", there you go! Say hi Erin, "hello", there. Now let them introduce themselves. "I'm the smartest kid in my school", pronounced Erin proudly. "Well I'm the funniest kid in school", interrupted Eric. It was Monday, the worst day in the week, and Eric was slowly slumping to school. Meanwhile Erin was racing to school because there was an exam in 12 minutes, oh and by the way they are both in the eighth grade. Erin got to school while Eric was still slowly walking to school. When Eric finally got there, he said, "oh home time already Ok", he said quickly and raced back home. Meanwhile Erin was going over his answers on the exam about science. After the test they gave the answers and, obviously, Erin got an A+. Eric got home and started playing video games like Space Invaders and Pacman. When Erin was walking out of class he noticed Eric was gone. He searched everywhere and then... he checked the screen that showed the camera he set up. at home to see if he was playing video games and, he was. He told the principal where he was going and rushed home, grabbed Eric, and in a flash they were back at school. Eric groaned, "When will this end." then the school bell rang, "home time at last!" yelled Eric. "No, just lunchtime", snickered Erin. Eric groaned again while he was walking to the cafeteria. Then the time to go home came at last, and it was Friday. "School's out for the weekend!" exclaimed Eric as he ran home at the speed of sound. Erin yelled at him, "but you still have to do your exam!", but Eric wasn't listening. At home, Erin was studying for the next exam, which was in a month. "Dude, just chill. It's the weekend!" explained Eric. "I still have to study to stay at the top of the class." interrupted Erin. Well, that's Erin all right. Well, that's a normal Friday with Erin and Eric. Well anyway, that's this story. I hope you enjoyed. It is a short one, but I think it's a good one. Thank you for reading!!!
