

Galactic Comet

By: Cody J.

One day on a breezy, sunny morning there was a fast, strong, brunette boy named Comet. Comet was 12 years old and today was his birthday. Before he went to his birthday party, Comet made a stop at his dad's lab to grab some supplies. As he snuck into the secret lab he bumped into the lab table slightly making a chemical spill. He quickly rushed out of the lab before realizing the chemical has spilled on his shoe. As he soon arrived to his birthday celebration, something strange happened. He suddenly felt a sick feeling in his stomach, then suddenly got a pounding headache and felt chills down his spine. He refused to miss his birthday party and found the strength to get through his sudden sickness. One hour later, when the party was about to wrap-up he looks down shocked that the chemical had seeped down his shoe onto his foot. He secretly threw away his shoe. Thanked everyone for the party and told his parents he will meet them at home. He ran to his bike before anyone can notice he was walking around barefoot. When he arrived home, he rushed to his bathroom cleaning up any leftover product the chemical may have left on his foot. When he had finished cleaning off his foot he went straight to bed before his parents got home. As the birds chirped bright in the morning, Comet vanished sneaking into his dad's lab again to run a few tests to see if the chemical would have a deadly effect. In the process of running the test, he found a secret watch. Comet put the watch on, then it started beeping, as if someone was trying to contact him. As Comet pressed one of the buttons on the watch a tall handsome man appeared hovering over the device. The tall handsome man said, "Go to the old abandoned garage tomorrow at 10:00pm and come alone." The next day Comet did what he was told and went to the old abandoned garage alone. When Comet arrived, the man that he saw hovering over the watch appeared right in front of him. The man said, "Welcome, I am Agent Bret. Are you ready to train?" asked Agent Bret with a stern look on his face. Comet returned a confused look while Bret was explaining what was happening. Bret explained that the chemical that spilled on his foot gave him super powers because it came from another galaxy far away. The powers were strong that scientist have only recorded abilities similar to Comet's in a different galaxy. Comet cannot believe what he heard but happily replied to Bret that he was ready to train. First, Bret taught Comet how to tap-out his inner powers. Comet tried and tried, then he finally found one of his powers. So far, he could control the elements of earth. Every day Comet practiced until he mastered his power to move rocks and even create earthquakes using his sonic stomp. After many months of learning and training, Comet finally mastered his powers. Until one evening, during a training with Bret, Comet received a loud alarm. The loud alarm echoed from the watch. Bret read the notification and it says that there is an emergency in San Antonio where there is a robbery at a bank that has 3 billion dollars in the safe. Excitement washed over Comet as it was Comet's first mission. Comet is ready for his mission! They quickly went to the bank to stop the robbery. When they finally arrived at the bank they rushed in as they saw a bunch of people tied-up on the floor and the robbers was stealing from the safe. Bret untied the people and got all of them to safety while Comet was going for the robbers that escaped. Comet was quick, using his sonic stomp, he created an earthquake. Pow! Knocking down a bunch of robbers. Then there was only one more robber left that is carrying a big sack full of money from the bank. The robber had a weapon on him and tried to take down Comet, but Comet wasn't frightened at all. He charged at the robber snatching the gun then threw him across the bank floor. Comet grabbed the bag sack full of money and returned it to the bank. The bank owners and the people that were tied-up inside the bank thanked Comet. When Bret and Comet returned to the abandoned garage, Comet got another alarm on his watch. "Now you are officially the superhero of this town and you will be called Galactic Comet", said Bret with a smirk on his face. Comet knew that it is now his responsibility to save the people of his town from all the bad guys. He is ready! Now, his superhero adventure begins.