

THE LOST WOLF

In a land far away, a land that no one and I mean no one new about. The land was called Wolves Lair. It was a wonderful place with everything any animal would need.

One day a mother wolf was playing with her pup, his name Alex he and he was five years old.

"I think it is time to head back to the den." Alex's mom said.

"Please mommy just five more minutes." Alex said.

Without knowing the danger, she said "Okay, but only five." He quickly padded along the forest to see who he could meet. And without a minute a big dark wolf sprinted to step in front of him. "Oh, excuse me." The dark wolf said in a dark creepy voice.

"With all due respect sir, but do I know you?" he sacredly said

"No..." he said in an even more creepy voice. Right when he said that he tripped Alex and ran off with him.

"AH!" Alex screamed in the dark wolfs ear. The wolf dropped Alex, and that was the last thing he could remember.

The next day Alex had no idea where he was he wasn't in Wolfs Lair, but he was in a village of...

bunny's? "Wait were, am I?" he said shocked.

"Hi!" a little bunny said.

“Uh hi?” he said oddly

“What is a wolf doing in Bunny Village?” said the little bunny.

“WELL WHY YOU THINK... I’M LOST!” Alex yeld.

“Oh... well that explains it. I think you need a friend. I’m Lilly. What’s your name?” the little bunny said.

“I’m, Alex, nice to meet you.” Alex said.

“So, you are lost? I can maybe help you get home.” said Lilly.

“Really? Okay, let’s go!” Alex said happily. So, they took their long journey, but something stopped

Them.

“Hello again. I have been looking for you. How has it been with that... HA!... bunny.” The dark wolf said in a dark voice.

“WHO ARE YOU!” Alex and Lilly shouted.

“I’m the King of Shadows.” he said. Alex and Lilly stop dead in their tracks. “Right, now I’m not looking for wolves to keep or prey. So, you must be on your way. Oh, and sorry about your mom. HA! HA! HA!”

Alex and Lilly continued their long journey until they finally made it to Alex’s den. Inside he saw his mom. “MOM!” he said cheerfully.

“I’m sorry. Do I know you?” Alex’s mom said oddly. Alex felt his heart begin to break. “Mom, it’s me Alex. I’m your son.” Alex sadly said.

“I’m sorry I don’t have a son. You must have picked the wrong person. The exit is that way.” She said and pointed. Alex and Lilly left dragging their feet.

“What now?” Alex said trying to hold in his tears. “Wait! Alex, I have a great idea. You can come and live with me!” Lilly said brightening up Alex’s face.

“Of course, I would love to!” Alex said while filially letting out his cry’s. So, they walked all the way home, and when they got home they fell asleep. And lived happily ever after.
