

The New Girl

By: Addison P

It was a scorching, hot summer day in Texas and Blaire was putting her swimsuit on to go to the pool with her dad when he got home from work. They were throwing a neighborhood party for the end of summer vacation at sunset, but her dad got home tremendously early. Blaire asked, "Dad why are you home so early?" He said, "I lost my job so we will have to cancel the party this evening." Blaire said, "I'll send an email to the neighborhood to let them know." Blaire felt sorry for her dad, but was also sad the party was being cancelled. She'll go to take her swimsuit off. Then she'll head to the pool to take down all the decorations. A few weeks later, Blaire asked her dad if she could go to a sleepover at her friend Callie's house. Dad said, have you two asked Callie's mom? Yes, we have, Blaire said. The next day, Blaire was ready to go over to Callie's house to play. After they had the sleepover Blaire headed back home. When she walked through the door her dad was shouting with excitement, "I got the job, I got the job." Blaire asked, what job did you get? I got a job at Disney World being Mr. Incredible in Orlando, Florida. But Blaire I'm sorry, we're going to have to move. All Blaire could think about was leaving her friends behind. She was feeling a mix of emotions; sad, angry, nervous, anxious, and happy.

A month past by and Blaire finally got to see the new house. When she walked in the house she thought it was a dream come true. First, Blaire ran into the kitchen and she saw a huge island with enough room to bake on top of. Blaire just imagined how perfect it would be making homemade treats with her family. She then turned around saw a beautiful fireplace. She thought of all the nice, warm, toasty fires she could make with it. Then she ran up the flight of stairs and she saw her room! Her room was just like she imagined; it had a big closet and tons of room to play.

A few days later the time had come to start her first day at her new school. Everything so far has been great so this should be a breeze, she thought to herself. Blaire woke up with a big smile and ran down stairs saying it's my first day of school at Thunder Mountain Elementary. She knew it would be great, but more than anything she just wanted to fit in. When Blaire got to school she was ready to learn. She met her teachers they were all really nice. Blaire even made a few new friends. After school Blaire ran to her dad's car and told him I'm ready for tomorrow this school is awesome.

The next morning when Blaire got to her classroom she was ready to see her new friends she had made. When she walked into the classroom they were all talking to each other and having fun. Blaire felt left out. Time flew by and it was already time for lunch. Blaire thought they had assigned seating but they didn't; Blaire thought it was amazing that she could sit wherever she wanted. She joined a sweet group of girls that had a seat waiting for her. Time passed by hour by hour and finally it was time for recess. Everything looked so cool she wanted try all it. Blaire heard someone shout "Hey we're over here Blaire. Come join us." The same group of girls from lunch wanted her to join them in a game of freeze tag. Blaire was so excited because this was her favorite game from her old school. Blaire thought to herself, no I don't feel like the new girl. Le the adventures begin with my new group of friends.