

Lost in Candy Land

Far, far away in a city lost deep in the sands and forgotten by the world there lives a college student named Flurry and her baby sister Lollipop. They live in Candy Town and are made of brownies. One day Flurry takes Lollipop on a picnic to Banana Mountain.

Unfortunately, their picnic doesn't go as planned. A very big earthquake strikes right in the middle of Banana Mountain. Flurry and Lollipop fall on opposite ends. When Flurry gets up she sees that Lollipop is no longer there. All she sees is a weird looking tree and a person sitting next to her. The person's name is Sir Cakerson. Sir Cakerson says that Lollipop has been kidnapped by the evil Candyman and he will help rescue her. They start their journey in the forbidden forest and find a glowing sword so they keep it because it could come in handy. Flurry and Sir Cakerson come across the Candyman's evil henchmen and battle them. The henchmen lose but Flurry sees that weird looking tree again. She doesn't want it to distract her so, Flurry just moves on. When they get to the Candyman's castle the weather changes from warm and sunny to snowy and dark. The dark black wooden gate opens slowly by itself revealing what was inside the castle. The lights were dimmed in a shade of red. There was a spotlight on the Candyman. Sir Cakerson and Flurry quickly come up with a plan that while Sir Cakerson is distracting the Candyman Flurry will save Lollipop. Their plan works and they save Lollipop. The Candyman gets arrested and the citizens of candy town live happily ever after.
