

The horror story

By Aiden B.

Once there was a boy named Jack. Jack was the new boy in town and all he liked was horror games. He always played them and never stopped. But it was fine until the first day of school. He went to Benjamin Elementary School. He was 9. When he went it was the worst. His teacher was nice but that was not the problem. It was that no one liked horror games! So when he got home he decided to buy a magic computer. So when he went he downloaded games and played they came to life. There was Bendy, Tattle Tail, Freddy and friends, and the neighbor. He hurried down stairs and ran to the store where he bought the magic computer. But the manager could not tell him what was wrong with the computer. But he said he would have to go see the creator of the computer and his name was Scott Coffin. So he went to Scott Coffin's house and told him what is happening but Scott could not help him but he told him to use this it was a flashlight. Why do I need a flashlight. It's a magic flashlight Scott said you can use it to kill them. Ok? Said Jack so he went home and killed Mama Tattle Tail. Then he looked in the closet and saw Foxy so he killed Foxy. Yes said Jack then he heard a gasp it was the neighbor he ran as fast as he could and turned to kill him. Then he heard loud footsteps it was Freddy's band. Quickly he flashed his light and they died. Woo said Jack so he went to bed and woke up next morning and ran down stairs and broke the flashlight then he heard a laugh so he turned around and saw Bendy ahhhhhhh!

The End