

Carie and the Magic Book

“Open your books to page 67 please.” Said Mrs. Meadows. Everyone opened their books except me. I was so caught up in my new book I didn’t hear my teacher. “Carie please take out your book.” Mrs. Meadows said again. “Yes Mrs. Meadows.” I sighed. At the end of the day I went to the bus stop. I read the whole time on the bus like I always do. When I got home I dropped my backpack on the floor and ran as fast as I could to my room to read my book. I read and read until dinner. Right when I closed my book something amazing happened! The main characters flew out of my book! Which were guess what fairies! How did this happen? How will they get back in my library book? “Where are we Carie?” asked Lena. “Lena, Maya, Mary!” I cried. “Your in my world.” I said. “How did you get here? Maya explained everything. “This happened to my brother once.” Mary said. The only way to get back in the book is for the person who checked out the book has to finish it and return it on time. “Ok” I said. “I’ll go tell my parents so they can tell my teacher I can’t have homework.” “ You can’t do that!” Mary said. “Why?” I asked. “You can’t tell anyone what just happened because if you do you’ll send us to jail in the evil fairy’s hidout.” Said Mary. “Ok, first I’ll go tell my parents I’m skipping dinner then I’ll finish reading my book.” I said. “What about returning it?” Lena asked. “Tomorrow is library day, I’ll take you to school so you can get sucked back in there.” I said. “Ok” they all said together. “Carie, please go to bed now!” Called Mrs. Cammi. “Yes mom!” I called down the hall. “Good night.” I said sleepily. “Good night” they said back. The next morning I jumped out of bed and got dressed. I skipped breakfast and snuck the fairies in my backpack and went to the bus stop. On the bus I finished my book. As soon as I got off the bus I ran to the library and returned my book. But when I returned it nothing happened. “Why didn’t it work?” asked Lena. “Oh ya, I forgot the magic works at library.” Mary explained. All of a sudden the bell rang and I ran to class as fast as my legs would carry me. I sat down in my seat and waited and waited for library. Finally it was time for library. I grabbed my book while no one was looking I snuck the fairies in my shirt pocket and lined up. When I stepped into the library there was a blinding flash that only me and the fairies could see. When I opened my eyes the fairies were gone. “Bye” I whispered. I was sad that the fairies were gone but inside I felt like I would see them again. “Are you coming Carie?” asked my friend Kala. I gazed up at the ceiling and blinked a few times. “Hu!” I said getting out of my daydream of meeting the fairies again. “Are you coming?” Kala repeated again. “Oh, um yes.” I said. When I was picking out my book I saw a book was sparkling and walked over to it. When I touched it Lena, Maya, and Mary flew out from behind it. “What are you doing here?” I asked. “We just wanted to give you a thank you gift for bringing us back home.” Said Mary. Then Lena waved her wand and shimmery gold necklace popped up on my neck. “It’s filled with fairy dust so you can go to our world and turn into a fairy anytime you want.” Explained Lena. I knew I would meet them again. I thought I wonder when I’ll meet them next time.
