Once upon a time there were two sisters and they were princesses and their names were Snow and Snowflake. Their mom died when they were very young and they didn't know the cause. Their dad did not like to talk about how their mom died. one day Snow and Snowflake asked their dad if they could be spies, but their dad said no! Sometimes Snow and Snowflake would play pretend spy when their dad was not around. One day Snow and Snowflake asked him if they could have a sleep over, and he agreed. So, Snow and Snowflake invited their friends, Abbie and Addie over for a sleep over. That night all the girls played games and watched scary movies. When all the girls went to sleep they heard a strange sound from where all the girls' jewelry were kept. The four girls made a plan, Snow said this could be our chance to show our dad that we can be spies. So, the girls grabbed their weapons and went to where the girls kept their jewelry. Abby peeked around the corner to see who it was. She saw there were two boys stealing their jewelry. The girls captured the two boys and called to the guards to put the boys into jail. Snow and Snowflakes' dad was impressed by how Snow and Snowflake captured the boys, so he said they can be spies. He then told them that he did not want them to be spies because that is how their mother died. They told their dad that they will be careful and they lived happily ever after. The End.
