

Travel to Horror Land

by Colin A.

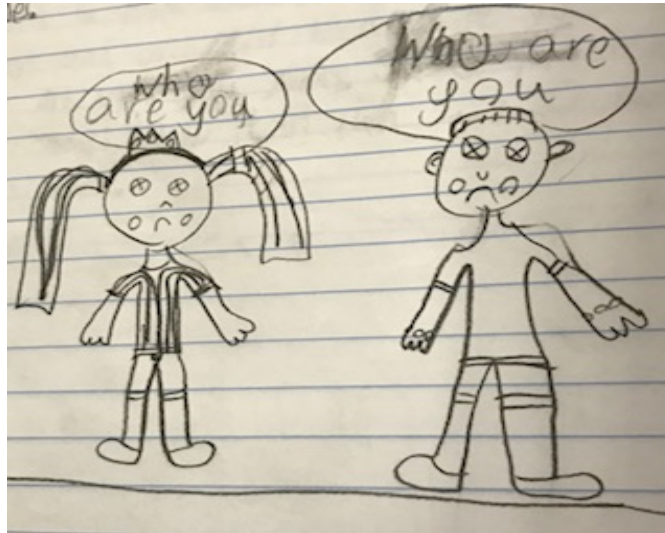

Illustrated by Peyton Johnston

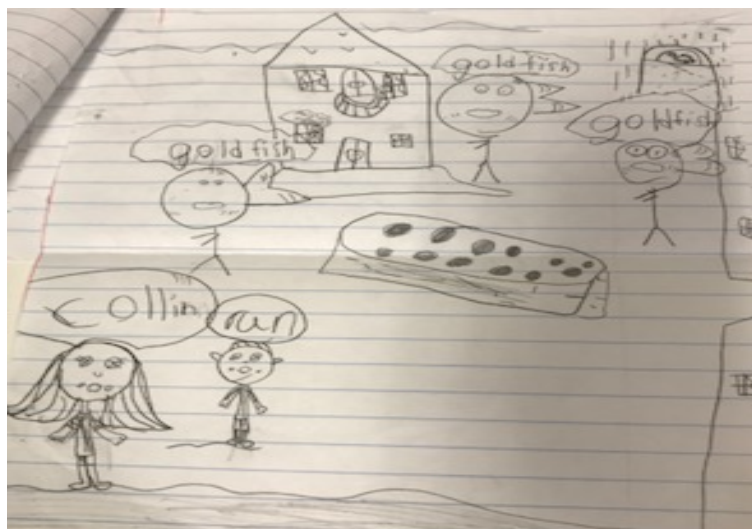

“Mr. Collin!” James and Payton called. Mr. Collin is a doctor and Payton’s little sister is sick, so Payton needs Mr. Collin help her. Payton and James came to a house. “Ding-dong,” went the doorbell. “Who is it?” said Mr. Collin. “It’s Payton and James,” said Payton and James. “You mean Queen Payton and James the fastest person?” said Mr. Collin. “Yes,” said Payton. “Mr. Collin, I was ahhhhhhhhhh!!!” yelled Payton, James and Mr. Collin as they fell to Horror Land.

“Who are you and you?” yelled Payton. “I-I am James,” said James. “Who are you?” said James. “I am Payton,” said Payton. “Who are you?” said Payton and James. “I’m Mr. Collin,” said Mr. Collin. “Beep, beep, beep,” went Payton’s phone. “Let’s go find the portal to the real world,” said Mr. Collin. “But first let me figure out where we are,” said Payton. “Now let’s start our search,” said James.

As time passed, the trio arrived at a river. “Water!” yelled Payton. “Yay!” said James. “Do you hear that?” said Mr. Collin. “It’s a monster!” said Mr. Collin. “Hi,, I’m Bob. I’m a goldfish and goldfish like to sayyyyyyy...” went the monster. Payton picked up the first thing she saw, a hairbrush, and threw it at the monster. “Well, that’s that,” said Mr. Collin. Just as they turned around the monster popped up with a new monster. The same thing happened over and over until there was a thousand of them! “Let me try,” said James. James picked up the hairbrush, threw it at them and no monsters came back.

“I’m hungry,” said Payton. The trio had been attacked one hundred times. “Food!” screamed Payton. “This is not yours,” said a voice. A dark shape landed in front of the trio. “DRAGON!!!” yelled Mr. Collin. “James, look, the portal,” whispered Payton. Bonk! Payton’s hairbrush bounced off the dragon’s head! “Who did that?!?” yelled the dragon. “James, go get the portal,” whispered Payton. “Hey, you! Dragon!” said Mr. Collin. “Do you like pie?!?” yelled Mr. Collin. “Jump in!” yelled James. The trio jumped in and went to the real world.

