

The Girls with Magical Powers

“Why is this so hard?” Anna asked herself. She was running around the room. You see, Anna can run faster than anyone because she has super speed. Right now, she is being controlled by her powers. That’s why Anna hardly goes to school. She can’t stop running everywhere. At thirteen, it’s hard to control anything. “AHHHHHHHHHHHHH!” Anna screamed. Suddenly, she stopped. That was close. She was about to bump into a lamp. Her mom would have yelled at her.

“Why can’t I go to school today?” Anna asked her mom. “You know why.” said her mom. Why can’t I be normal like everybody else? Anna thought. Nobody else in her family had powers.

A few days later, Anna went to school. Her class was going to run the track. Don’t do anything weird, don’t do anything weird, Anna told herself. Soon they were running. Anna was in the back, trying to not to keep up with the others. Then, Anna felt her legs wiggle, her arms jiggled and then she took off running, and seconds later, she was way ahead of the other students.

“Look at her!

What a show off!” the other students yelled. When Anna reached the finished line, she fell on her face. Anna got up, dirty from head to toe, while getting up, she was greeted by the coach.

“What in the world was that!?” Questioned the coach. “Uh- I- uh...” Anna stuttered. Suddenly, a girl named Amy showed up.

“Wow, that was amazing! How did you run so fast!?” she asked.

“Uh, thank you.” Anna replied. “My name is Amy.” said Amy.

“Hello, my name is Anna.” Anna whispered.

Later, Amy and Anna met in the library. "So, how did you do it?" asked Amy. "Did what?" asked Anna. "The way you ran so fast." Amy replied. "Oh," Anna answered. There was an uncomfortable silence. "Can I tell you a secret?" Anna finally said. "Of course, I won't tell anybody." Amy promised. "OK, I have super speed, and I can't control it." said Anna really quickly.

"It's ok, I have powers to." Amy whispered.

"WAIT, YOU DO!?" Anna whisper shouted.

"Yes I do, and I can show you how to control your powers." Amy answered. "Thank you, Amy!" Anna said. "And what's your power?" "Oh, I'm as strong as a bear." said Amy. "Strength." answered Anna in aww.

Soon the girls were practicing before, and after school. Anna would do exercises Amy use to do when she was learning to control her powers. Every day, students would whisper about Anna. She ignored them, until a boy named Alex said aloud "What a show off. She probably used dark magic to run as fast as light." People started to back away. "No, he's wrong." Anna murmured. But she couldn't help feeling alone.

"What's wrong?" Amy asked one morning. "Nothing" Anna replied. "There's something wrong."

"No there isn't."

"The school's bothering you, aren't they?" Amy wondered. "Yes." Anna finally admitted. "Don't worry, you'll be fine. You have me." Amy said. "Ok."

Anna answered. "Now what?" She asked. "Time for lunch!" Amy exclaimed chasing Anna down the hallway.

"Why are you hiding in the corner slowpoke?" Alex asked. "None of your business." Anna said trying to sound brave. "Scared?" Alex questioned. "No." She replied. "Spit it out Anna, I know that you have a secret!" Yelled Alex.

"Leave her alone, bighead!" Came a voice. Of course, it was Amy. "She is no show off. She just has talent. There is no need to treat her like a dog." "What are you going to do about me?" Alex screamed.

"Anna is a sweet girl with the best grades." Amy continued. "Not only that she's smart, she's also the best runner. Anna is the fastest girl I ever met, don't you think so, too?"

All of the students nodded.

Amy went to Anna's table, and frowned. "Why are you crying?" she asked. Then, Anna thought of all the times she was alone. She's had a friend all along. Now, she doesn't have to worry about being lonely. Her eyes filled up with tears. "You didn't have to do that." Anna sobbed. "Yes, I did. For my best friend." Amy declared.

From that moment on, the two were inseparable.
