

Audrey's Life

Audrey let out a big sigh as she looked out the window. It was the last day of school, so today she didn't find school as important as usual. "Audrey, will you like to tell the class the answer?" said Mr. Roberts. I'm so crushed thought Audrey. The bell rung and everyone rushed out of the door except for Audrey who was stuck talking to Mr. Roberts of why she wasn't paying attention. As Audrey and Mr. Roberts talked, Audrey looked through the window just to see kids rushing everywhere to get out and start their summer. "Is that clear Audrey?" said Mr. Roberts. "Yes, Mr. Roberts," said Audrey who has started paying attention again. "Hopefully you'll pay more attention next year," said Mr. Roberts just as Audrey went out the door. Audrey started thinking about her summer. Next month she would be visiting her best friend Paige who had recently moved to New York City. They were both so excited when their parents said they could meet during summer. The main thing Audrey really looked forward to doing that summer was having Paige stay with her for a month just like she would be doing. She couldn't wait until she went to NYC and shopped for new clothes and got caught up with the latest trends they had in NYC. While Audrey was daydreaming about going to NYC she got interrupted when her phone rang. It was her mom. "Hey Mom," said Audrey. "Oh sweetie, I was worrying about you." said Audrey's mom. "Well, mom, I'm alright. I just had a little talk with Mr. Roberts," said Audrey. "Ok, sweetie. I'm about to go for groceries. If you get hungry there's two cupcakes in the kitchen." said Audrey's mom. "Ok, Mom. Bye," said Audrey as she hung up. When Audrey got home she went in the kitchen grabbed a cupcake and went up the stairs then stopped went back down and played the piano for a while until she finished her cupcake. Audrey went up to her room and turned on her computer. When it was on, she clicked on facetime and started chatting with Paige. Usually she would send her a text, but they both agreed that it was more quicker with facetime. It only seemed like 5 minutes for Audrey, but then she heard her mom's car pull into the driveway. Audrey went down the stairs to help her mom get the groceries. As they finished she grabbed the other cupcake and went back to her room. The next morning Audrey got up early. Apparently she had forgotten that she didn't have to go to school anymore. She was going to go outside when her mom stopped her in her track. "Sweetie, where are you going?" said her mother. "What do you mean? I have to go to school just like always. Remember?" said Audrey shocked at why her mother forgot she had to go to school. "Oh sweetie," said Audrey's mother as she began to chuckle, "You don't have school today. It's summer now- your favorite season of the whole year," said her mother. "Mom, I can't wait to go to NYC to see Paige again!" said Audrey excitedly. "I'm so excited too sweetie!" said her mother. After the excitement a phone started ringing. It was Audrey's phone. Audrey stared at the screen then went upstairs for privacy. As she was going upstairs she frowned and answered it. "Hey!" she said as if she was excited to receive the call. The person and Audrey talked for about 15 minutes or so. "That's cool. Well, I'm going to visit Paige. Anyways, I have to go. Call you later," said Audrey into the phone. Then Audrey's mom said, "Sweetie, you have to start packing because we have to go this week. Her mother says bad things are popping up," said her mother. "Yes, mom and by the way, I don't need help packing. I already packed my stuff since last week," said Audrey pleased. "Ok, well, I hope you're excited as much as I am Honey. We will be leaving tomorrow," said her mother as she walked out of the room. The next day the sun was shining so bright, and Audrey was super excited. The plane finally landed. Audrey and her mother were now in NYC. Audrey couldn't wait to see Paige's face again! They soon reached Paige's apartment which was hard because lots of people live in NYC so it was so crowded. Paige and Audrey hugged when they saw each other. "Omg I missed you so much. I just couldn't wait anymore!" said Paige excitedly. In the afternoon the girls went to the park to have a picnic. They had fresh fruit, egg salad sandwiches, and apple pie. While the girls ate, they talked about how life was now that they were separated and about boys. When the girls went back to Paige's apartment, they went straight to Paige's room to paint their nails. When the girls were done painting their nails, they admired each others nails. After that Paige started calling her friends over to her house so they could meet Audrey. "It's going to get crowded here," said Paige's mom. "Mom, you and Mrs. Smith can go over to Mrs. Ashley's apartment", said Paige. "What an excellent choice! Thanks sweetie. Oh and by the way, the brownies are ready," said Paige's mom as she and Audrey's mom headed to Mrs. Ashley's apartment. Once all the girls were at Paige's apartment, they all crowded around Audrey and started asking her all sorts of questions.
