

The Biggest Revenge Prank Ever! By Beatrice O.

There was once a girl named Lilly. She was 14 years old. Lilly's parents just announced that they were moving to a new city. "What! We can't move to a new city. What about my school, and my friends, and my teacher?" I shouted. "If we move, I will have to leave all that behind."

"Don't worry honey. I bet your going to make tons of new friends", said mom stroking her hair.

"Whatever" said Lilly marching up to her room. She flopped on her bed and cried herself to sleep. A few weeks later, they were in a new city and a new house. It was Lilly's first day of school. Her mom dropped Lilly off at the front of the school. She was a nervous wreck. She got out of the car and walked inside. She was greeted with lots of warm smiles. She went to the front office to get her class schedule. Then when she was on her way to her first class, she met these two girls named Zoey and Chole. They became friends instantly and started to hang out during and after school.

One day when Lilly was walking to her locker to get her books, she bumped into this girl named Jessica. "Walk much?" said Jana.

My cheeks blushed with embarrassment. "I'm sorry", I said stuttering. I was getting up to my feet when Zee and Charlotte spotted me and helped me get up. They asked me if I was okay. I told them I was find. They looked over at Jana and gave her a long icy glare. Jana just snickered and walked away. When she was halfway down the hallway, Charlotte said, "Stay away from her. She is really bad news!" We grabbed my books and headed to the first class.

The next day I walked into the school, but I couldn't help but notice that everyone was staring at me. I spotted Zee and Charlotte and asked what was happening. They said Jana was spreading rumors about me. "What kind of rumors?" I asked.

She was saying stuff like, "Lilly is self-absorbed and doesn't care about anybody but herself." She also said I bumped into her on purpose.

After school I walked to my house and ran up the stairs to my room. I wanted to pull a prank on Jana. Luckily, I was the biggest prankster at my old school. The school prom was coming up and I figured this was the perfect time to pull my prank. I knew Jana would be crowned prom queen.

A few weeks later it was prom. I had my prom dress on and did my hair and makeup. I was going over my plans for the prank. I wanted to be prepared. When I arrived at the school there were streamers everywhere. Everyone was in pretty dresses with their hair done. They gym was transformed into a magical fairy tale land. One hour into the dance, they stopped to announce the prom queen. Sure, enough it was Jana, just as I suspected. She went up to grab the crown and she put it on her head. While she was saying her speech, I was getting into position. I yanked the rope as hard as I could and watched honey drip all over Jana. She was sticky, wet and drenched in honey. That's how I pulled the biggest revenge prank ever.
