

Leniyah H.

Unknown

Alec was asleep when she received a text. She looked at the phone and it was a number that she did not know. He or she had texted Alec saying, "truth or dare?" Alec texted in response, "dare." Unknown texted back, "are you sure?" Alec thought about this for a couple of minutes and then responded with a smirk, "sure." Unknown texted back, "okay, stay tomorrow night at the creepy house down the block and you cannot leave for 24 hours no matter what." Alec responded, "How do you know where I live?" Unknown texted back, "A magician never reveals their secrets."

Alec text back, this time looking worried, "Are you stalking me?" Unknown replied to her question, "I am not saying, I might be though." Alec responded, "I will find out you know."

Unknown texted, "If you do not go then you die, and once you do as I ask then you have to text someone else saying truth or dare. Then text what I am saying to you so that they will not die.

You also must use the name Unknown and not reveal your true name." That night Alec could not sleep without the thought of someone stalking her running through her mind.

It was finally the next day and she quickly packed her bag. She was walking to the creepy house down the street and when she got there, she took her phone out and began to text Unknown, "I am at the house now. When she finished with her text there came a loud crash from the kitchen. She rushed in to see the pots and pans all strewn across the kitchen.

Panicking, she ran to pick them all up. When she was done doing that she went to sit on the couch. The house was dark and dreary, and she felt scared and alone. To occupy her mind she picked up her phone and looked at her Instagram account.

It was now night time and she went up the stairs to go to sleep in the scary house. She went to the master bedroom and it was huge. There was a huge king-sized canopy bed with red curtains going around the railings. She woke up in the middle of the night because she heard someone screaming and following that was a booming thunder. The screaming she heard was telling her, "Get out of my house now!" She got up and texted unknown frantically, "What happened to the previous owners?" Unknown responded, "An intruder happened." "Oh", Alec texted back wondering what he or she meant by that. As Alec sat there shaking and crying the voices continued shrieking. "Get out of my house!" She then realized that Unknown meant that it was her who was the intruder.

Suddenly she heard a loud zip and she ran downstairs completely terrified and screaming.

The couch and the pictures were all scratched up with some scary looking claw marks. While running down the stairs she was pushed the rest of the way down. She then limped to the couch because her leg was probably injured. She laid down on the couch and tossed and turned restlessly. For the remainder of the night she was in and out of sleep, but she stayed the full night in fear of dying if she didn't.

When she finally woke up in the morning, she knew what she had to do. She took her phone out of her pocket and texted her teacher Mrs. July, "Truth or dare."