The Light

there was a kid who wanted super powers but heros don't exist this is story about a kid who gets powers so one day he went to school but then he got bullied and punched.

No one cared if he wanted super power they all told him super heros don't exist! Then he came back home with a sad face so he cried but he saw a shooting star so ran to his bed and said I wish I had super powers and not to be bullied ever again.

But then it was morning time he went with his dad bike riding he drove and drove and drove then they ride over a stream and he and his dad fell off the were drowning then 1 day later... the boy got lost and was buried then he saw a bright colorful light when he touched it nothing happened But his Father Found him his Father said Omg! Finally Found you lets get Back home.

He came home but went to school but then he saw a guy he was a the stuff in the school. And the school he said i have a Feeling that theres a super hero here then he killed his dad and said noooo you paying for this the guy said hahaha! You think you can beat me then he cared about what happen to his dad then he got powers.

But then his power was to encircle so he turned into nine tail Fox. But then he controlled it and got the villain and used it for good thing

The end.
