The Dragon Bite

One day me and my family moved from Miami Florida to LA. I was nervous and scared at the same time. I was scared because my friends told me about this dragon bite they said if you get the dragon bite you will have bad luck for 3-4 years, and start seeing stuff like the dragons chasing after you with flames, that caught me off guard, I was thinking about the Charizard Pokemon. The last thing they told me was you will get teleported to another dimension. Also good luck I was in shock, I told my parents they burst out laughing so hard. I was so embarrassed, their friends were there to. I went to my room and called my friend from Miami I said "are you sure the Dragon bite is real" he said "yes im for real". Tomorrow was my first day of school so I was scared. It was the next day, and I woke up at 7:30am I went to school and told one person about the dragon bite he said "what dragon bite" that felt awkward, For the rest of the day I didn't say a word. The kid that I told about the dragon bite he was actually a bully and told everyone. I went home and called Josh (Miami friend) I said are you suppose to tell anyone about the dragon bite. He said No! you're never suppose to tell anyone. I said "but how did you" (he cut me off) whatever the dragon is coming and he hung up. If you don't know how my face looks like now, here it is :O. I was terrified when he said "the dragon is coming". I just went to bed and forgot about it. The next day of school was really bad everyone was saying "haha dragon bite" that kept going in my head. I went home again and slept until I heard a loud boom under my room I went down stairs and saw a dragon it was all gold and diamond color it turned its head and ran towards me and boom. I woke up in my bed I notice a dragon bite and had bad luck for months and a year past and still the same. The end.
