One day there was a mom, dad, and a little girl the little girl's name was Angelka the family thought it will be a normal day of moving but they thought wrong they were at the new house. Angelka had a bad feeling about the new house but her parents said it's fine it's just new to you honey Angelka said. I guess so ma and pa at least she had pretty room they already got there stuff into the new house but there were still some stuff in the truck Angelka's parents said to stay inside because they were still not done getting stuff from the truck so they given her toys to play with Angelka got her toys and went inside to play but Angelka heard a voice that said can I play with Angelka got scared she ran outside she was crying her mom said what happened sweetie Angelka nod her head back and forth she stopped crying and her mom said are you okay Angelka said I'm ok mom it was a few days that past she will have the same dream every night the dream was her losing her parents and Angelka was so sick so sick she is pale and she died and that dream came true I hope nothing goes wrong with the other family. Angelka plays with the little girl Angelka got so jealous will definitely say something happened to the family. Now Angelka hates the house. They say if you check inside YOU NEVER will see another day.
