

Jadyn
Jamie And The Chalk

One day Jamie went outside to draw. Drawing is her passion, she CANNOT live without a piece of chalk. There was always a theory that when you draw something it comes to life. The only thing Jamie wants right now is a dog! The next day she went outside, and she drew a Poodle. Nothing happened. The day after that she went outside, and she drew a Golden Retriever. Nothing happened. The day after that she drew the best dog there possibly is, a Labrador Retriever. Do you know what happened? There was a Labrador Retriever that somehow popped up out of the ground. “YAY!!!!” Jamie screamed. Jamie was so happy.

“Ruff Ruff”, barked the dog. While she was drawing she might as well draw a blue collar, and a purple leash. The collar and the leash both popped out of the ground. So she took her new dog for a walk.

“What should I name you?”, Jamie asked. I'm gonna name you Sydney. As Jamie was coming back around the corner she saw there were multiple dogs scattering around the neighborhood. “OH NO!” said Jamie. Jamie knew what she needed. “I will be right back” Jamie said. About three minutes later, Jamie came back with a bucket of warm water. But as she was coming back there were Poodles and Golden Retrievers popping out of the ground. “This will do it,” said Jamie. Jamie poured the warm water on the pictures. “Uh Oh, this won't be enough!” said Jamie. So Jamie ran back home and got three buckets of hot water. She couldn't carry all of them so she used an old wagon. As Jamie came back she wondered what she would do with all of the unattended dogs. When she was there again she poured all the water out of the three buckets. “Finally.” said Jamie. The dogs stopped popping out of the ground. “Where did Sydney go?” Jamie asked. “There she is” said Jamie. Jamie took four hours just to find out what to do with the dogs and then she got the idea. Jamie was gonna make money to get toys and food for her dog. SHE IS GONNA SELL THEM!!!! After five months she sold all of her dogs that were all different breeds and also made $6,000 dollars. Jamie wasn't selling them for too much money because she knows that lots of people also wants dogs, and they didn't want to pay lots of money. Jamie was always the kid that loved to give back so that is what she did!

THE END!!!