By Camila

There was a girl named Layla. She was 13 years old and grew up being bullied. She is still dealing with it. The mean girls pulled up in the restroom and started saying: "you're a ugly brat." Then, they started to hit her. Layla started crying But Layla was so tired of getting bullied -She went home- She ran to her room crying. she told herself: "Calm down Layla, it will be okay."

She had a really heartbreaking life. Her mom had cancer, and Layla wanted to pay for her cancer treatments, but since she was only 13, she could not find a job to help her mother with the expenses. Also, Her father had abandoned the family when her mom got sick. That night, she went to sleep to forget about drama in school, but her mind could not rest.

Next day, Laya woke up, changed into old clothes because she had to walk to School. Then the really bad bullies were waiting for her. The bullies started to say: "Haha thats why ur mom has cancer!" But Layla was tired of Zoe saying mean stuff, so she stood up and said: "Look Zoe, that is how my life is and you do not understand what is happening in my life. You should try to be nice sometimes. Zoe looked at me with a sad face and said: "I'm so sorry Layla. I thought you were joking. Then Layla said: "Zoe, that's why you should know somebody's story before judging.
