

The Secret World

Oziel A. – 3rd Grade

There was once a guy named Luis. He lived in a small house in California. He lived a normal life. He worked at the State University of Los Angeles. He taught about the world and its landmarks. Even though he had only been to New York City to see the Statue of Liberty. He did know a lot of landmarks and their meanings. One day as usual he, as usual walked home since he lived close to the university. What he didn't know was that some guys were watching him. When he pulled up to an alley he felt a shiver as the wind blew in his direction. He felt something unusual, as if somebody was watching him. Then some guys charged at him and as he ran he tripped. Then all went blank. When he woke up he saw clouds. He freaked out and tried to run away but then something cold cut him arm. He was handcuffed to a cushion. He was on a private jet. But he then remembered what had happened. He screamed his lungs out. Nobody came. Then a woman that seemed like a flight attendant came. He said "where are you taking me." All she did was look at him with a smile. When they landed he noticed sand everywhere. Then he saw them. The Pyramids of Giza. Then people came. It turned out to be his friends Rick and John. They told him how long they had been all over the world collecting gems. Then they said that the portal was inside the biggest pyramid. Then they went inside. The gems started glowing. Then, like magnets they jumped off their hands and flew. Then all of a sudden it rained outside in the desert. Then they heard rumbling and a blue portal opened. They went in, and there it was a land full with gold and gold statues. They were amazed but they knew they were explorers. The next day a chopper got there and they showed the scientists where. Then they got awarded 1 million dollars. They accepted and left. After that they all went back to their lives. Now Luis knew that he had helped find the biggest discovery of the century. The End.
