

The Secret Spy Society

I get my missions every Tuesday. I never question where these missions come from or who gave them because they were always for the greater safety of the school. For months and months I thought I was the only spy taking care of matters, but one day I realized it wasn't true. One day I was walking home from school and got kidnapped and taken to an underground passage. Little did I know that was where I got my missions. I looked around and saw the other kids I went to school with and realized we had been working together without even realizing it. We had been brought together to work on one of the biggest assignments any of us has ever gotten. It was up to us to save the future, but I knew we could do it because when kids come together they are unstoppable because kids have the biggest imagination in the whole world.
