

A Hop Towards Kindness

By Lillian G.

Once upon a time there were three sibling bunnies. The youngest bunny's name was Daisy, and she is in kindergarten. Her older siblings are named Bella and Liam, and they are both in the 5th grade. One day they were off to school. They hugged their parents goodbye and went off to enjoy a day of learning.

After they arrived, Daisy was walking in the school hallway until a bully bunny named Flopsy tripped her. "Hey! That was RUDE," said Daisy. "Well, I don't CARE, Poopy-Woopy Daisy," laughed Flopsy. Flopsy's two friends began laughing. "I can't believe you look so ugly," said Clover. "Yeah, Clover is right!" said Mabel.

At first, Daisy felt upset and embarrassed. "That was really mean and that was NOT COOL!" said Daisy. "YEAH...NOT COOL," said every bunny in the hallway.

At lunchtime, Daisy and all her friends were sitting together laughing, joking and enjoying their meal, even Clover and Mabel. Flopsy sat alone eating her carrots feeling lonely and sad. Before lunch was over, Flopsy walked over to Daisy to apologize. "I am sorry for tripping you earlier. I was having a really bad day," said Flopsy. "I forgive you as long as you promise to be kind to everyone from now on," said Daisy. "I promise. Friends?" said Flopsy. "Friends," said Daisy. "Would you like to share my spaghetti with me?"

Daisy and her new friend Flopsy sat and shared their meal. From then on, they showed each other kindness and played together every day. Daisy could not wait to tell her parent and siblings all about her new friend.
