Dark Shadow

Once there was a girl named Marvel she was walking home from an audition, "Dad the judges didn't even look at me,"... "hello?... well that's great, my phone died," so she started to walk to the bus stop. When she got there, she looked at her watch. Seven minutes until the bus came. Suddenly, her stomach started to growl, she didn't eat all day because of the audition. Luckily, she found a taco truck, it was only one block away. She started to run across the street. But, just as she was about to take a bite of her piping hot Beria taco, the bus came and was about to leave! "oh no, stop wait!," she shouted but it was too late. Just as she watched the bus disappeared. She saw a black figure holding something. Just as she decided to move closer, she realized it was a knife! She started to run as fast as she could. With the figure behind her, she ran into a dark alley. But soon she realized it was a dead end. She tried to turn back but it was too late! She is now remembered to this day. With no trace of the figure left behind. Citizens are more careful. This is also why you should not walk home alone.
