Back In Time

Hi, I am Star, and I am 10. This story is about my life and what it is about.

I woke up at 6:30 a.m. so sleepy and exhausted I could barely open my eyes, I wanted 5 more minutes of sleep, but I got up anyway. I rose to my feet and tried to walk I literally almost fell. Knowing school will start at 8:10 I had 2 hours or so to get ready and maybe eat breakfast. I grabbed my robe. My robe has blue flowers that look like they were popping out or something they were furry too. I arched my back and groaned my feet were dragging themselves on the ground. As I picked myself up to go take a shower, I noticed that my dad was still sleeping he, usually gets up for work, but I guess he's not going to work today I thought. If you saw my mom and dad, they look like they are not even married but they are. I probably forgot what happened yesterday because my mom was not home, and I thought she went to work, she was already at work. Basically, my mom works at a prison (portal office) so she works night shift, I don't get to see her much. I opened the door to the bathroom and turned on the light, the bath was across from the door (where you come in) there were curtains hanging from the ceiling. I pulled away the curtains to fill the tub, opened the tap and went to the sink. I started to brush my teeth when I heard a loud "BANG", although I was surprised to hear an after sound guess what I heard.... My mom and dad, they were arguing again. I'm not shocked about this because they argue all the time! I get annoyed, but I do not really care. I've got used to it. The tub was filled up with water, I figured my parents had stopped arguing, all I heard was silence and that's what I liked.
