

Joseph G. - 3rd Grade

Once upon a time there were 4 gods of the Elements. The wind god was doing the daily breeze. When he thought to himself hmmm. I do the same thing every day. Today I'm going to have fun with the fire god. So he goes with the fire god and asks. All mighty fire god would you like to have some fun with me he asks. The fire god was controlling the volcanos then he turned around. Yes I would like to have some fun with you he said. But don't you think we should invite the other two gods the fire god said? Yes I think we should invite them the wind god said. Then let's go find them the fire god said. So they went to find the god of light. All mighty god of light would you like to have some fun with me and the wind god he asked? Yes I would have some fun with you and the wind god. Let's go find the earth god next the wind god said. Hey earth god do you wanna have fun with us he asked. Yes let's go to the secret god playground. Yes I love that place the wind and fire god said! Ok let's go the Earth god said. And they played and played until the sun went down by the light god. And they lived Happily ever after.
