Book 1: The Doctor

It was 10:00 pm on a gloomy, stormy night and I was looking out of my apartment window in Colorado. I could see the moon glistening in the night, just like it used to when my Dad and I would see it when I was little. Now Dad's gone because of how "Difficult" his life was, at least that's what the Police Officers said when they found his body floating down the Colorado River. Anyways, as I was looking out my window, I saw a circular disk that had lights that was illuminating the apartment. I got up to take a closer look, the futuristic frisbee crashed into the room, knocking me over.

I slowly crept over to examine the disk. When I got close, the top slid off and out came a quiet voice saying, "You have been chosen by the Galactic Guard." Then the voice spoke again, almost like it was speaking to itself, it said, "I hope they were right". I looked over to answer it and it was dead, that's when I blacked out.

When I woke up, I was in what looked like a hospital room, but I couldn't tell because everything was spinning. I could feel what something coursing through my veins. I saw my crush Sarah Pike next to me, and I saw a dark figure in the corner of the room. Somehow, I could tell that the mysterious figure was evil. It moved closer and closer until I could hear it say "The Catalyst will find you soon" then everything went black again. When I woke up this time, I could see my Mom and my best friend Tobi next to me. Tobi was talking to my mom about how Genghis Khan had killed over 10% of the world's population when I heard my Mom say, "Tobi, Will's awake!", Tobi tried to hug me. He accidentally touched a spot that hurt a lot and instantly I somehow shot him across the room into the back of the wall. My Mom screamed and went over to see if Tobi was okay. Tobi jumped up and said, "I'm fine, how did you fling me across the room like that? I've never seen anything like that before!" I was wondering the same thing. How did I do that? Did that have to do with that spacecraft thingy? I saw the dark figure again, realizing the first time I saw it I was dreaming. It walked up to Tobi and my Mom and said, "Can I have a moment with Will?" My Mom said: "Yes, anything that you need, Doctor." I knew when I heard my Mom say, Doctor, that this was a hospital room, but I didn't think that the Doctor was an actual Doctor. I could see that the name tag the doctor was wearing looked fake, and I had a feeling of fear that I couldn't explain. The Doctor looked at me and said: "I know that you know about the catalyst so, I'm going to kill you for your power of the air." I heard him say that and was confused. I jumped out of the hospital bed and I was somehow able to fly out the window. I didn't even know how I was doing this, I just knew that I was in danger. The "Doctor" pulled out a gun, shot my leg and I fell.

The hospital room was luckily on the first story, so the fall didn't hurt that bad but I realized I'd got shot in the leg! Tobi and my mom heard the gunshot and rushed outside where they saw me on the ground. I told them about the "Doctor" and that I knew what I had to do. I had to do to destroy his company. His company made a profit from taking powers from children and giving them to the Catalyst. These were things I just knew now, and things I had just learned to do. I had new powers and I understood that I'd been chosen to be a member of a powerful team that was devoted to destroying the catalyst.

I found the "Doctor's" headquarters and flew to the side of the building carrying a bomb that Tobi had made using his knowledge of almost everything. I went into a room we nicknamed "The Money Room" because it looked important. I set the timer on the bomb and flew away carrying Tobi. We flew until we were at least a mile out when I turned around to see the headquarters in flames. We could see that a helicopter was flying out of the plume of smoke. Tobi said " That should get rid of him for a while." That was months ago and now I was back sitting in my apartment and looking at the moon again, just like I did with my Dad. I heard a knock on the door, so I opened it and what I saw was shocking. "Dad?"
