

Ellen O.

It was cold and dark outside, everyone was asleep or so I assumed. I was waiting for my friends to take me to a party. Then all of a sudden someone from a far distance was screaming "Allison run, save yourself!" I didn't know who it was until they came into the light. It was Emma she seemed out of breathe, which was weird because she never gets tired running. Then she said "Allison, we need to go inside before...." BANG! It was too late, Emma fell to the floor. Then I went inside and woke everyone up to warn them. "Wake up! Emma is no longer with us, we need to evacuate so no one else get hurt!" Everyone came downstairs, as we were just about to head out, the door opened. There was a man with a worried face "Are you okay?" he asked, but then he smiled. BANG! BANG! BANG! BANG! My whole family was gone except for me. He walked out slowly not saying a word. I didn't know what to do except to run and hide. I will never forget that man's face, but most of alii will never forget the day lost a close friend and my whole family.
