

My Destiny

By Maria H.

Have you ever found your Destiny?

Let me tell you that finding your destiny is hard. Let me tell you what are my three choices and then I will talk about my story. My first choice is dancing, my second choice is being a singer, and last not but not least my last choice is being a good author. One day I was at my house and I was really bored, so I was thinking, should I look for my destiny? My mom said it would take a long time to find my destiny, but I did not believe her. Also I would try to sing but that was not really my destiny. And there was only dancing, or being an author and it was so excited but I went to go to a dancing class and my teacher said that I was not good at dancing so I thought that my destiny could be an author. I thought that this will be my last chance. All thought I was making my book and people told me that that was amazing and I was thinking would this be my destiny! And people were saying a lot of comments and I found out that this is my destiny!
