It was Monday morning and Jack hated Mondays. He was late for school and Jack missed his bus, could this day get any worse, Jack said. He ran as fast as he could to school, he was just in time for class. He sat by his friends John and Tina. After school Jack watched some TV. He saw on the news that someone stole some jewelry and they were worth millions of dollars. Jack wanted to help solve the case but he needed some help from his friends. He gathered Tina and John at the mall and asked them if they can help. John said no but Tina said yes then Tina begged for John to join the team fine said John. They went to the place where it all went down the jewelry store. They found some evidence. It was a part of his ID card. Now we have to another half of the ID card. Finally we found the other half of the ID card inside the trash can. They reported it to the police and they caught the thief and Jack, John and Tina got a little reward.
