

Fizz Khalifa

There once was a cave filled with riches and jewels. Nobody knew the location of this cave except a horse. This horse's name was Bob. But here is the plot twist, Bob was actually demented. He could not run nor gallop, or even carry a man on his back. Bob was left alone in the small village of Viz.

This village, the Village of Viz, was well known for having the world's best horses. Everyone owned one, from Old Bowie to Young David. They had the world's best racing team, called YOLO. "Your only livestock is obese." I am only a narrator so why they would name their racing team that is beyond me. Nevertheless, Bob was excluded from the village because he was slow and could not even carry Young Bowie. Everybody looked down on him like an outcast. Even the slowest horse, Maokai, could walk faster him. There was also a very smart boy named Fizz, Fizz Khalifa. Thing was, Fizz did not have a horse and the horse breeding season was over. No horses remained but Bob. In an act of desperation so he could be crowned a adult, Fizz took in Bob and renamed him Mordakaiser.

Soon after Fizz took Mordakaiser for a ride and found out Mordakaiser was quite fast. Soon enough, Mordakaiser was going faster than all the horses combined. Fizz noticed that all he had to do was love. As long as Fizz loved Mordakaiser, Mordakaiser would go as fast as Fizz wanted.

The day before the race, Mordakaiser turned into a Great White shark and died on land. The End.

Morale of the story: Do not judge a book by its cover; I mean don't judge a donkey because you will never know if it's a shark. Don't judge.
