

The Forgotten

By Lauren P.

Another day another minute I sit here and wait for my mom to yell at me. "Jaxson get up" Mom said. I hopped in the shower with nothing on my mind. But wait it's a big day it's the last day of school. I can't wait till I jump in the beach. First period, the worst period. I have Mrs. Breache, she's the oldest teacher in the school, all we do is sit there and read while she sleeps. "Yes!" School is over but my mom has some news. "I giving you up for adoption," my mom says. "What Please Mom no I love you Please don't go." "I need to fix myself up," Mom said. "Welcome to your new home," Mom said.

I walk up. A man walks up to me. He said, "Are you Jaxson young fella? Yes, welcome to your new home," he said. "I'm going to find you a new family who is going to love you for who you are." I turn around and my mom drives off....

Today's the first day in a week that I might get a family again. I walk in. It's Mrs. and Mr. Calvin. I introduce myself. "I'm Jaxson." We had a full on conversation. The next day they decided. They're my new parents! I'm so happy but what about my mom. I never really knew my dad and she was all I had. But at least she's OK. The next day I walk out the building with my new family. I'm not just Jaxson, I'm Jaxson Calvin.