

The Famous Wizard

By: Justin C

One day I was doing my work at the Apple store, I make iPhone, iPad, computers and more. I live with my parents and I want to make money to get a house of my own. The money I was getting was not enough to buy a house, so I went to the attic and found old velics to sell. One looked like a wizard staff and I picked it up and suddenly a portal appeared, and I went inside "welcome to the world under your world" said an old man."it is time to start your training wizard Alex", he said again I was questioning that I was a wizard the old man said "your father was the best wizard in the world, he would beat the bad guys in his sleep, so what do you say Do I get to control the fire and control it do the same with water, air, and earth. He said, "you just have to clear your mind and give commands to the elements you are controlling" It took me like 25 tries, and I did it. He said it is time to do combos" I asked what combos he are said combos are the mixture of elements and combined. The element to make combos move I tried it 130 times but then a red light flashed. The old man said "the bad guy are here to fight"
