

The Girl Who Had A Secret!

By: Jayden H.

There is a girl, a girl named Anna Michelle Lee, and this is her story.

Anna Michelle Lee was in her backyard playing with a little garden gnome when she saw a big glowing light. Anna was curious, she walked toward the glowing light, eyes squinted and her hand in front of her face, blocking out the light. When she touched the light, she felt a shock.

“What was that? Where’d the light go? Did...” she had just realized she was floating in the air. She felt like screaming, but knew she shouldn’t.

“Ahh!” she was suddenly startled by a girl with wings coming toward her.

“Shh!” said the girl, “My name is Fly, and you?”

Anna was startled, but she answered anyway, “Anna Michelle Lee. Why?” she asked.

“Because your one of us now, a fairy...well...if you want. You get to choose.” Fly answered.

“Choose to have wings? To be a fairy?” Anna asked.

“Yes.”

“Could I tell anyone, like my family?”

“I’m sorry, but no. Our kind has to stay a secret,” Fly whispered.

“Ok, I’ll do it! I really want to tell my friend, but know I can’t. I’m ready! But two last things: will it hurt and can I come down now?”

“It shouldn’t and here,” Fly said, putting Anna down. “Here we go!”

She put out her arms. Anna closed her eyes, her back felt tingly for a moment, then didn’t anymore. She opened her eyes, looked at her back, and couldn’t believe what she saw: wings! They only had one sparkle right in the middle.

“Don’t worry, you’ll get more sparkles. What is your favorite color?” Fly asked.

“Blue. Why?” asked Anna.

“It tells what kind of fairy you are. You’re a water fairy. You only get your wings at night, but keep your powers all day. The fairies have meetings every night under the old willow tree. We will introduce you to Headmaster Sparkle Winx tomorrow. Bye!” Fly said.

“Bye, thank you! I won’t tell anyone! I promise!” Anna replied.

Anna went inside. It was getting late. She didn’t know what to do. She went to bed early that night thinking about what had just happened. When she woke up, she had gotten her wings! She snuck out the back door, went into the backyard and practiced flying. She wasn’t very good at first but then she got the hang of it. When it turned 6:00 she saw her wings going away. She flew to the ground and her wings disappeared.

She went back inside to wait until 6:15. When it finally turned to 6:14 she went to her bed, laid down, and acted like she had been asleep the whole time. When her dad said “Time to get up!” she put on her clothes, grabbed her breakfast, lunch, purse and backpack. Then she ran out the door as fast as she could. She had to find a way to keep the secret from her family and friends.

Anna ran to school that morning. When she got close to the school, she saw her best friend, Carey, waiting for her by the front of the building. She said, “Anna, can we have a sleepover? We haven’t had one in a while.”

“I guess. I would have to ask my parents though. Is tomorrow good?” asked Anna.

“Sure,” replied Carey.

All through the day, Carey noticed that Anna seemed distracted and wasn’t paying much attention in class.

“Anna, are you okay? You’re acting strange,” said Carey.

“No, I’m fine,” said Anna. She looked to the distance, frowning. Anna hoped that Carey wouldn’t wake up in the middle of the night at the sleepover.

Anna made it through the day acting as normal as she could. She knew that after Carey asked if she was feeling alright and she answered, “No, I’m fine,” Carey was suspicious. When Anna got home she asked her mom and dad if she could have a sleepover with Carey, and as Anna suspected they said, “Yes, of course! We love Carey!” just like every other time she asked.

The next day Anna told Carey about the sleepover and hoped everything would be alright and Casey wouldn’t find out her secret!

At the end of the day Carey called her mom to make sure she knew that she and Anna were having a sleepover. Her mom said, "Ok, but as long as you don't get in trouble. If you do get in trouble..."

Carey interrupted, "I know, I know. I would have to go home."

"Exactly! Love you, honey! See you tomorrow."

"Bye, Mom. Love you, too!" Carey said, relieved that she could go to the sleepover.

"Ok, let's go!" Anna said worriedly. Anna might have seemed calm on the outside, but she was freaking out on the inside. Anna knew that Carey was curious and would not rest until she found out what was going on. She had to calm down, but couldn't. She was afraid that Carey would wake up in the middle of the night and see her wings! Anna could not let that happen!

"If she does find out, what would happen?" Anna muttered to herself, but unfortunately, not quietly enough.

"If who found out what?" Casey asked, suspiciously.

"No one and nothing," said Anna. "And if it was anything it wouldn't be any of your bees-wax!"

"Anna is definitely hiding something from me! I need to spy on her!" Carey thought.

A few hours later they were at Anna's house getting ready for bed. Carey had been watching Anna the whole time and this made Anna even more worried. Anna got in her bed and Carey got on the couch.

When the time came, Anna got her wings and then realized that she had on a blue dress with water decorations on it. She flew to the backyard and then Carey woke up. Carey gasped when she saw Anna's wings and dress. Carey still had her mouth open when she saw the other fairy, Fly, who was coming to pick Anna up.

"Ready to go?" Fly asked.

"Yep," said Anna.

Suddenly, Carey tripped over a garden gnome, catching both fairies' attention.

"Carey! Are you alright? Were you spying on me?"

"Yes," Carey said, "Who's that? And you look awesome!"

"Fly, what do we do?" Anna exclaimed.
