Baam! Baam! Baam! My brother said, as I quickly put down and slid it back into a crack. Why are you in my room and what are you doing he said. I answered neither of those questions. Never mind I don't care he said, now get out! I pulled the box out from the crack and ran as fast as I could go, I went past the living room and I saw my dad on the couch watching the game and my mom in the kitchen cooking some of her famous cookies. I ran past the bathroom where my baby brother was in the bathroom on the toilet I squinted my eyes and pinched my nose. Finally I was at my door so I pushed the door hardy Slam! My door closed and I took a breath loudly and opened the box that I had and picked up one of the phones that was in the box and I said to myself what is the password to this phone I tried 1234 incorrect the phone said then typed 1 1 1 1 ,2222,3333,4444,5555,6666,7777,8888,9999, and all of them said incorrect then I typed his B-day 2000 and it said correct and right when I got into the phone my brother busted into my room and took the box and phone then said I am disappointed .
