

The Problem
Written by: Jackelyn

One day in the park, a boy named Rafael was so sad because his mom, his best friend in the world, had passed away. Rafael had to go home and then his dad told Rafael, "You're going to go have to make friends." Sadly, Rafael went to bed. When he woke up the next morning and got to school, he remembered what his dad had told him. He told the teacher what his problem was. The teacher told Rafael, "Well, I can be your friend." So Rafael felt very happy. The bell rang and the teacher called his name for recess. Rafael said, "I have a friend." Then Rafael saw his neighbor, Pablo. Rafael gathered up his courage and asked Pablo, "Can you be my friend?" Pablo said, "Yes, I would love to be your friend." When Rafael went home, he happily told his dad, "I have two friends!" His dad said, "Congratulations!" Rafael's dad told him that he could keep meeting new people. Then he continued to meet more people.
